

automotive semi-flexible tube automotive connectors

The exhaust gas recovery (EGR) tube is used to duct exhaust gases back to the intake manifold via an EGR valve thereby reducing the level of toxic emissions.

The EGR tube is mounted between the exhaust manifold and the EGR control valve to prevent damage to the engines aluminum and plastic components.

Their semi-grid construction makes alignment and installation in tight places easier.

data sheet – SITCOFLEX 102

*for further information on SITCOFLEX
e-mail : sales@sitflexible.com
web : www.sitflexible.com*